MAHUKA PROPERTY SOON MAY BE PUT ON MARKET

Government Evidently Will Sell At Upset Price of $200,000 and Reimburse Citizens

With the pussing of the Warren Bill in the house at Washington yesterday are the certainty of early action on the much-discussed and long-awnited federal building for Hopolulu. The Warren Bill was one appropriating $30,000 for the erection of the building and $350,000 for a site, but the exhied reports from Washington yesterday indicate that the amounts have been changed in the bill as it has assed, providing $1,000,000 for the building and $250,000 for the site, a most desirable amendment, masmuch as the site most desired can be purchased for a quarter of a million, while the section to the hollding fund will inare a federal building worthy of being placed in the first American city which a great many foreigners see and where they form their first impressions of the United States and its govern-

Delegate Kuhio yesterday cabled to R; W. Blifngle of the Waterhouse Trust Company, stating: "Federal building

bill passed house with amendment limiting cost of site to $250,000.' Pollowing this cable a message by Federal Wireless reached The Advertiser from its Washington correspondent, stating that the bill is amended another particular. This message

"House passes building bill increasing reimbursement to two hundred

This means, necording to the interpretation placed upon the message by Mr. Shingle, that the Mahuka site is soon to go upon the market, evidently at an upset price of $200,000, from which the government will reimburse the citizens who subscribed to the street opening fund, with interest, will stimhurse itself for all that has been significantly and the various expenses connected with the drawing up of plans, and will also repay into the treasury the original amount paid for the site, some $104,000. Mahuka Site Worth Double Mahuka Site Worth Double That the property will bring this amount is practically a certainty. Based on other recent sales of downtown properties, the Mahuka site is worth double the presumed upset price. The bill provides for the advertising of the property and its sale at ing of the property and its sale at public auction. The original upset price named in the bill was $160,000, an amount sufficient to reimburse all private and government claims against the property.

There are two sites which have been under consideration by the treasury de-partment—the Spreckels site, which is the property at the corner of Merchant and Alukea streets, and the Irwin site, the property facing the Palace Square between Milalani street and Richards street. The limitation of the site fund to $250,000 means, evidently, that the secretary of the treasury, acting upon the word of Honolulu that his selection would be taken as final and without further protest, has decided upon the Irwin site. The value of the Spreckels property, although less desirable for public building use, is greater than the amount barned in the bill as amended, while it is understood that the figure covers the amount asked for the Irwin

Property.

The matter of the site for the federal building his been a persunal source of local irritation, and Washington has been bombarded for years with petitions pro and con regarding the Mahuka site.

The amended bill has to go to the senate for its concurrence in the changes made in the bouse, but this is regarded now only as a matter of farm. Under ordinary circumstances the final drawing up of the plains, the advertisation of the next ninety days, and the actual with upon the building commenced by indicating the many other hundreds of thosemands to spent by the desired government in army and rayy construction, promises to keep Hongului a busy place for many months to come.

for in the rivers and harliers bill now before a committee of the bonse.

When the chamber of commerce learned that Hawaii was practically climinated from the bill, the maritime affairs committee of that body at once started the ball a rolling to get McClellan to appear before the house committee on behalf of Hawaii.

Members of the maritime affairs committee held a meeting resterday morning and read a cable from Kuhio, in which he said it was not necessary to engage McClellan, and that he would appear before the senate committee when the bill reached that hody and ask that liberal appropriations be made for Honolulu and Kahujai harburs.

The decision of the committee yesterday morning, which was not to send McClellan to Washington, makes it practically vertain that the chamber will leave the matter in Kuhio's hands, which appears to be his wish.
